VOLUME 19 INDEX

The Art and Science of Video Settlement Brochures, Ian R. Sisett, No. 5, p. 275.

Biomechanics of Indirect Acceleration Injuries, Julia T. Unterharnscheidt, No. 6, p. 287.

Brain Injury

Introduction and Admissibility of Quantitative EEG (Brain Mapping), Bruce H. Stern, No. 3, p. 153.

Lay Witnesses in a Traumatic Brain Injury Case, Bruce H. Stern, No. 4, p. 205.

Opening Statement in the Mild Traumatic Brain Injury Case, Bruce H. Stern, No. 1, p. 37.

Traumatic Brain Injury: Understanding Memory Impairment, Glenn Cahn, Ph.D., No. 2, p. 101.

Beyond a Shadow of a Doubt: Why Jury Selection May Be the Most Important Part of Trial, William D. Grand, No. 2, p. 73.

Cahn, Glenn, Ph.D., Traumatic Brain Injury: Understanding Memory Impairment, No. 2, p. 101.

Caley, Steven P., and Robert L. Haig, How to Defend "Unsafe" Products, No. 5, p. 253.

Caley, Steven P., and Robert L. Haig, Representing Corporate Plaintiffs in Complex Litigation, No. 6, p. 309.

Caley, Steven P., and Robert L. Haig, Successfully Defending Product Liability Cases, No. 1, p. 27.

Child Witnesses

Practical Ideas for Working with Child Witnesses, Mary Alice McLarty, No. 1, p. 5.

Choice-of-Law Analysis for Punitive Damages: Backing into the Future with lex Loci Delicti, W. McKinley Smiley, Jr., No. 4, p. 189.

Class Action Reform

"Class Action" Reform: Endless Clashes of Values or Constructive Results?, Victor E. Schwartz, No. 4, p. 231.

Closing Argument

Creating Juror Participation and the Ruby Ridge Incident: The Narrative Strategy in Gerry Spence's Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 5, p. 259.

Winning Narratives in Courtroom Rhetoric: Blending Stories and the "Evidence" in Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 6, p. 331.

Commercial Litigation

The Power of Information in Financial Disputes, Terry Lloyd, No. 2, p. 89.

Computer Animation

Three-Dimensional Computer Animation in the Courtroom, Chin C. Seah and Thomas A. Groudle, No. 3, p. 167.

Computerized Trial Preparations

Discoverability of Computerized Trial Preparations—And Ways for Attorneys to Protect Themselves, Thomas M. Mulroy, Jr. and Steven M. Wernickoff, No. 3, p. 125.

Communication

More than Meets the Ear: Balancing Verbal and Nonverbal Messages, Eric Oliver, No. 4, p. 221.

Corporate Plaintiffs

Representing Corporate Plaintiffs in Complex Litigation, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 6, p. 309.

Creating Juror Participation and the Ruby Ridge Incident: The Narrative Strategy in Gerry Spence's Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 5, p. 259.

Data Deluge: Finding Your Way Through a Scientific Study, M. Elizabeth Karns, No. 5, p. 243.

Demonstrative Evidence

The Expert's Use of Graphics to Analyze and Present Quantitative Information, Peter Schulman, CPA, MAE, No. 1, p. 11.

The Power of Information in Financial Disputes, Terry Lloyd, No. 2, p. 89.

Three-Dimensional Computer Animation in the Courtroom, Chin C. Seah and Thomas A. Groudle, No. 3, p. 167.

Discovery

Discoverability of Computerized Trial Preparations—And Ways for Attorneys to Protect Themselves, Thomas M. Mulroy, Jr. and Steven M. Wernickoff, No. 3, p. 125.

The Power of Information in Financial Disputes, Terry Lloyd, No. 2, p. 89.

Discoverability of Computerized Trial Preparations—And Ways for Attorneys to Protect Themselves, Thomas M. Mulroy, Jr. and Steven M. Wernickoff, No. 3, p. 125.

Does It Matter if It Doesn't Matter?: An Appraisal of Mock Jury Research, Edith Greene, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 1.

The Evolution of Structured Settlements, Don McNay, No. 4, p. 217.

Expert Witnesses

The Expert's Use of Graphics to Analyze and Present Quantitative Information, Peter Schulman, CPA, MAE, No. 1, p. 11.

What Do I Need a Psychologist for?, James W. Schutte, No. 5, p. 269.

Focusing on Juror Focus Groups, Amy Singer, Ph.D., No. 6, p. 321.

Grand, William D., Beyond a Shadow of a Doubt: Why Jury Selection May Be the Most Important Part of Trial, No. 2, p. 73.

Greene, Edith, Ph.D., Does It Matter if It Doesn't Matter?: An Appraisal of Mock Jury Research, No. 1, p. 1.

Gross, Daniel D., Creating Juror Participation and the Ruby Ridge Incident: The Narrative Strategy in Gerry Spence's Closing Argument, No. 5, p. 259.

Gross, Daniel D., Winning Narratives in Courtroom Rhetoric: Blending Stories and the "Evidence" in Closing Argument, No. 6, p. 331.

Groudle, Thomas A., and Chin C. Seah, Three-Dimensional Computer Animation in the Courtroom, No. 3, p. 167'.

Gutierrez, Fernando, Ed.D., J.D., and Frederick Leafgren, Ph.D., Looking Beneath the "Venire": Revealing Potential Jurors' "True Colors," No. 1, p. 43.

Haig, Robert L., and Steven P. Caley, How to Defend "Unsafe" Products, No. 5, p. 253.

Haig, Robert L., and Steven P. Caley, Representing Corporate Plaintiffs in Complex Litigation, No. 6, p. 309.

Haig, Robert L., and Steven P. Caley, Successfully Defending Product Liability Cases, No. 1, p. 27.

Health Care Quality Improvement Act (HCQIA)

Negative Peer Review: Avenues of Relief Available to Doctors Under the HCQIA, John C. McIntyre, Jr. and Stephen Joseph, No. 4, p. 211.

How to Defend "Unsafe" Products, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 5, p. 253.

Indirect Acceleration Injury Cases

Biomechanics of Indirect Acceleration Injuries, Julia T. Unterharnscheidt, No. 6, p. 287.

Insurance Benefits Cases

Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 1, John F. Romano, No. 2, p. 79.

Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 2, John F. Romano, No. 3, p. 131.

Introduction and Admissibility of Quantitative EEG (Brain Mapping), Bruce H. Stern, No. 3, p. 153.

Joseph, Stephen, and John C. McIntyre, Jr. Negative Peer Review: Avenues of Relief Available to Doctors Under the HCQIA, No. 4, p. 211.

Juror Focus Groups

Focusing on Juror Focus Groups, Amy Singer, Ph.D., No. 6, p. 321.

Jury Psychology

Does It Matter if It Doesn't Matter?: An Appraisal of Mock Jury Research, Edith Greene, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 1.

Focusing on Juror Focus Groups, Amy Singer, Ph.D., No. 6, p. 321.

Jury See, Jury Decide: Courtroom Behavior and Juror Judgments, Eric Oliver, No. 6, p. 299.

Looking Beneath the "Venire": Revealing Potential Jurors' "True Colors," Fernando Gutierrez, Ed.D., J.D., and Frederick Leafgren, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 43.

More than Meets the Ear: Balancing Verbal and Nonverbal Messages, Eric Oliver, No. 4, p. 221.

Jury See, Jury Decide: Courtroom Behavior and Juror Judgments, Eric Oliver, No. 6, p. 299.

Karns, M. Elizabeth, Data Deluge: Finding Your Way Through a Scientific Study, No. 5, p. 243.

Lay Witnesses

Lay Witnesses in a Traumatic Brain Injury Case, Bruce H. Stern, No. 4, p. 205.

Leafgren, Frederick, Ph.D., and Fernando Gutierrez, Ed.D., J.D., Looking Beneath the "Venire": Revealing Potential Jurors' "True Colors," No. 1, p. 43.

Litigation Goes Public, Barry D. Weiss, No. 5, p. 247.

Looking Beneath the "Venire": Revealing Potential Jurors' "True Colors," Fernando Gutierrez, Ed.D., J.D., and Frederick Leafgren, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 43.

Lloyd, Terry, The Power of Information in Financial Disputes, No. 2, p. 89.

McIntyre, John C. Jr., and Stephen Joseph, Negative Peer Review: Avenues of Relief Available to Doctors Under the HCQIA, No. 4, p. 211.

McLarty, Mary Alice, Practical Ideas for Working with Child Witnesses, No. 1, p. 5.

McNay, Don, The Evolution of Structured Settlements, No. 4, p. 217.

Medical Malpractice

Trial of an Intraosseous Infusion Case, Alvin A. Wolff, Jr., No. 2, p. 123.

Mock Juries

Does It Matter if It Doesn't Matter?: An Appraisal of Mock Jury Research, Edith Greene, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 1.

More than Meets the Ear: Balancing Verbal and Nonverbal Messages, Eric Oliver, No. 4, p. 221.

Mulroy, Thomas M. Jr., and Steven M. Wernickoff, Discoverability of Computerized Trial Preparations—And Ways for Attorneys to Protect Themselves, No. 3, p. 125.

Multijurisdictional Disputes

Choice-of-Law Analysis for Punitive Damages: Backing into the Future with lex Loci Delicti, W. McKinley Smiley, Jr., No. 4, p. 189.

Narrative Strategy

Creating Juror Participation and the Ruby Ridge Incident: The Narrative Strategy in Gerry Spence's Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 5, p. 259.

Negative Peer Review: Avenues of Relief Available to Doctors Under the HCQIA, John C. McIntyre, Jr. and Stephen Joseph, No. 4, p. 211.

Nordstrom, Rodney R., The Trial Attorney as Raconteur, No. 2, p. 109.

Objections

To Object or Not to Object—That Is the Question, Ian R. Sisett, No. 6, p. 339.

Oliver, Eric, Jury See, Jury Decide: Courtroom Behavior and Juror Judgments, No. 6, p. 299.

Oliver, Eric, More than Meets the Ear: Balancing Verbal and Nonverbal Messages, No. 4, p. 221.

Opening Statement

Opening Statement in the Mild Traumatic Brain Injury Case, Bruce H. Stern, No. 1, p. 37.

The Power of Information in Financial Disputes, Terry Lloyd, No. 2, p. 89.

Practical Ideas for Working with Child Witnesses, Mary Alice McLarty, No. 1, p. 5.

Product Liability Litigation

How to Defend "Unsafe" Products, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 5, p. 253.

Successfully Defending Product Liability Cases, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 1, p. 27.

Psychologists as Consultants

What Do I Need a Psychologist for?, James W. Schutte, No. 5, p. 269.

Punitive Damages

Choice-of-Law Analysis for Punitive Damages: Backing into the Future with lex Loci Delicti, W. McKinley Smiley, Jr., No. 4, p. 189.

Representing Corporate Plaintiffs in Complex Litigation, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 6, p. 309.

Research

Data Deluge: Finding Your Way Through a Scientific Study, M. Elizabeth Karns, No. 5, p. 243.

Focusing on Juror Focus Groups, Amy Singer, Ph.D., No. 6, p. 321.

Romano, John F., Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 1, No. 2, p. 79.

Romano, John F., Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 2, No. 3, p. 131.

Schulman, Peter, CPA, MAE, The Expert's Use of Graphics to Analyze and Present Quantitative Information, No. 1, p. 11.

Schutte, James W., What Do I Need a Psychologist for?, No. 5, p. 269.

Schwartz, Victor E., "Class Action" Reform: Endless Clashes of Values or Constructive Results?, No. 4, p. 231.

Scientific Studies

Data Deluge: Finding Your Way Through a Scientific Study, M. Elizabeth Karns, No. 5, p. 243.

Seah, Chin C., and Thomas A. Groudle, Three-Dimensional Computer Animation in the Courtroom, No. 3, p. 167'.

Singer, Amy, Ph.D., Focusing on Juror Focus Groups, No. 6, p. 321.

Sisett, Ian R., The Art and Science of Video Settlement Brochures, No. 5, p. 275.

Sisett, Ian R., To Object or Not to Object—That Is the Question, No. 6, p. 339.

Smiley, W. McKinley Jr., Choice-of-Law Analysis for Punitive Damages: Backing into the Future with lex Loci Delicti, No. 4, p. 189.

Stern, Bruce H., Introduction and Admissibility of Quantitative EEG (Brain Mapping), No. 3, p. 153.

Stern, Bruce H., Lay Witnesses in a Traumatic Brain Injury Case, No. 4, p. 205.

Stern, Bruce H., Opening Statement in the Mild Traumatic Brain Injury Case, No. 1, p. 37.

Storytelling

Creating Juror Participation and the Ruby Ridge Incident: The Narrative Strategy in Gerry Spence's Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 5, p. 259.

The Trial Attorney as Raconteur, Rodney R. Nordstrom, No. 2, p. 109.

Winning Narratives in Courtroom Rhetoric: Blending Stories and the "Evidence" in Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 6, p. 331.

Structured Settlements

The Evolution of Structured Settlements, Don McNay, No. 4, p. 217.

Successfully Defending Product Liability Cases, Robert L. Haig and Steven P. Caley, No. 1, p. 27.

Three-Dimensional Computer Animation in the Courtroom, Chin C. Seah and Thomas A. Groudle, No. 3, p. 167'.

To Object or Not to Object—That Is the Question, Ian R. Sisett, No. 6, p. 339.

Traumatic Brain Injury: Understanding Memory Impairment, Glenn Cahn, Ph.D., No. 2, p. 101.

Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 1, John F. Romano, No. 2, p. 79.

Treachery at Its Worst: The Wrongful Denial of Health and Life Insurance Benefits, Part 2, John F. Romano, No. 3, p. 131.

The Trial Attorney as Raconteur, Rodney R. Nordstrom, No. 2, p. 109.

Trial of an Intraosseous Infusion Case, Alvin A. Wolff, Jr., No. 2, p. 123.

Trial Publicity

Litigation Goes Public, Barry D. Weiss, No. 5, p. 247.

Unterharnscheidt, Julia T., Biomechanics of Indirect Acceleration Injuries, No. 6, p. 287.

Video Settlement Brochures

The Art and Science of Video Settlement Brochures, Ian R. Sisett, No. 5, p. 275.

Voir Dire

Beyond a Shadow of a Doubt: Why Jury Selection May Be the Most Important Part of Trial, William D. Grand, No. 2, p. 73.

Looking Beneath the "Venire": Revealing Potential Jurors' "True Colors," Fernando Gutierrez, Ed.D., J.D., and Frederick Leafgren, Ph.D., No. 1, p. 43.

Weiss, Barry D., Litigation Goes Public, No. 5, p. 247.

Wernickoff, Steven M., and Thomas M. Mulroy, Jr., Discoverability of Computerized Trial Preparations—And Ways for Attorneys to Protect Themselves, No. 3, p. 125.

What Do I Need a Psychologist for?, James W. Schutte, No. 5, p. 269.

Whiplash Cases

Biomechanics of Indirect Acceleration Injuries, Julia T. Unterharnscheidt, No. 6, p. 287.

Winning Narratives in Courtroom Rhetoric: Blending Stories and the "Evidence" in Closing Argument, Daniel D. Gross, No. 6, p. 331.

Wolff, Alvin A., Jr., Trial of an Intraosseous Infusion Case, No. 2, p. 123.

60 1/97
33749 14